GOVERNOR SPEAKS TO GREAT CROWDS

BARBECUE AND BASKET DINNER

Bomb Shell Thrown Into Camp of Radicals in Speaking Tour of Chief Magistrate in the East—Leaves for Wilmington.

(Staff Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Oct. 27.—Governor William Walton Kitchin spent today in Burgaw as the advocate of Democracy and that honored and distinguished North Carolinian delivered a campaign speech of great force and effectiveness. He inspired the Pender Democracy with enthusiasm and earnestness and on the 8th of November the county will roll up a good majority for Faison and the State and county tickets.

The Governor left here on the evening train, after receiving the distinguished consideration of the good people of Pender, spent the night at The Orton and will leave early tomorrow morning for Jacksonville, Onslow county, where another monster political rally will be held in his honor. He arrived on the early morning train today from the North and was warmly greeted by the citizens of Burgaw. He was a guest at the Black House and many called there to pay their respects to the chief magistrate of their State. At 1 P. M. a barbecue and basket dinner was served on the Court House lawn and hundreds gathered around the long tables to enjoy the feast. Indeed it was a sumptuous and bounteous repast, and the best of all, the splendid ladies of Burgaw and Pender were present in large numbers to dispense the substantials and delicacies provided in such great abundance.

After the feast the Court House bell summoned the people into the Court House and 500 or more assembled there, the splendid audience having been interspersed with the patriotic women of the town and county. E. L. Larkins, Esq., a leading member of the local bar and County Democratic Chairman, presided and called the meeting to order at 2:30 P. M. The St. Helena Italian Band furnished inspiring music for the occasion, and the audience which packed the Court House and overflowed into the aisles and lobby was one of the most enthusiastic ever faced by the Governor. He was greeted by cheers and spoke for more than two hours, having received marked attention and outbursts of applause throughout his speech.

After Chairman Larkins had called the meeting to order, he introduced Burgaw's honored citizen, Hon. J. T. Bland, to whom he alluded as a man of whom his fellow citizens were proud, in whom they placed the highest confidence, a man endeared to the hearts of all and a member of the bar of his county for 32 years. This honored citizen, he remarked, had been selected to introduce the Governor.

Mr. Bland was greeted with applause as he arose to introduce the Governor but he remarked that he would not take up much of the speaker's time with any remarks of his own. The Governor, he remarked was already known and greatly honored in Pender, and her people cordially welcomed him there in the great cause in which the people of North Carolina are interested. He was glad to see the Governor come to Pender to awaken the people to their duty to the party which had done so much for the people and the State. He observed that our greatest blessings seemingly are not appreciated, because they are ordinary blessings. He confessed to a feeling of depression at the thought that the people do not more heartily show their appreciation of the good government provided for them by the Democratic party, but they have enjoyed it so long, it is taken as a matter of course, while it had been so long since they were inflicted by bad government that they hardly realized the comparison. He introduced Governor Kitchin as a distinguished gentleman and the leader and champion of the best and greatest good of North Carolina in the achievement of whose greatness the Governor has participated and with whose progress he has been so conspicuously identified. North Carolina, he declared, has not reached the end of her greatness and progress, and it would continue under Democratic rule. He was reminded by the presence of bright school children of the great blessing which the State had derived from Democratic government and what it had done for education and progress entitled it to be continued in power in the State. He introduced the Governor as an exponent of the party to which North Carolina is so greatly indebted, and the great applause which greeted Governor Kitchin indicated that his reception by the people was as hearty as his introduction.

Governor Kitchin sincerely thanked Mr. Bland for his kind introduction and deeply appreciated the warm re-

TAFT GREETS THE VISITING BISHOPS

CONFERENCE ON AT CAPITAL

Bishop Warren, of Denver, Made Brief Address to the President.—President Refers to Progress Made by the Church.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The score of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, attending the semi-annual meeting in this city, were received by President Taft at the White House today. Bisnop Warren, of Denver, made a brief address to the President in which he outlined the work that the Methodist Episcopal Church has in view. The President in responding, said:

"The militant missionary character of the Methodist Church has shown itself not only in this country, but in countries far removed from civilization, and it has developed the influence and benefits of missions in a way that perhaps twenty or thirty years ago did not seem possible. I believe, and think you will agree with me, that the attitude of the general public towards foreign missions today is almost completely revolutionized and that you will find as you go about and urge contributions for that purpose a willingness to listen and an interest in the work that perhaps you have never found before.

"Now, I do not want to be invidious, and I am not a critic of my fellow man, especially those who entertain certain different political views from my own, but there was a time when the policy of this government towards those depenuencies that have come to us from the Spanish war, was very severely condemned, because it was supposed that we were reaching out with a greed of territory and a greed of power rather than with the desire to advance the cause of civilization and help our fellow men.

"I think the policies that have been followed and the developments that have resulted through the agencies of our church, have proven the error of those, who were entirely sincere in their criticism and who were fearful the effect the policy would have upon our government. I believe that the result has changed their views.

"I am glad to recognize that in coming here you agree with me that we all are working in the same field—you in one way and those of us who conduct the civil part of the government in another; but it is all the glory of God and the promotion of Christianity among men."

CUMBERLAND FAIR.

Most Successful Ever Held.—Racing Good and Spirited.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Fayetteville, N. C., Oct. 27.—Today's racing at the Cumberland Fair was excellent, each of the three events furnishing a series of exciting finishes. In the 2:18 pace, after Montague had won two heats and lost one in gruelling finishes, he broke in the early stages of the fourth and King James took a long lead. But the game little Montague came from behind with a spurt at the close and won by a length. Summaries:

Today's attendance on the Cumberland Fair was the largest on record. Ten trains and innumerable vehicles poured pleasure-seekers into the city until it was estimated that 15,000 visitors were here. The crowds were prosperous looking and good natured and enjoyed every feature of the Fair, which is a regarded the most successful ever held.

AT BETSY TOWN.

Small Crowd Greets the Candidates in Bladen County.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Elizaebthtown, N. C., Oct. 27.—Congressman Godwin and his opponent, Mr. Meares, spoke here today to only a small crowd estimated at 206, largely Democrats. The speaking was in the Court House and the results about as reported from other meetings. Mr. Meares led off with a one-hour speech, followed by Mr. Godwin. Each had 15 minutes rejoinder. Mr. Meares discussed the tariff and said Marion Butler was not an issue. Mr. Godwin answered his arguments satisfactorily and claimed Butler was an issue.

AVIATORS BATTLE WITH HIGH WINDS

Hoxsey and Johnstone Try For Altitude and Make Distance Record.

AUTUMN GALE MARS THE MEET

No Attempt Made to Fly Around the Statue of Liberty Yesterday.—Two Driven Miles Off of Course.—Events of Day.

New York, Oct. 27.—Such are the caprices of October weather that Ralph Johnstone and Arch Hoxsey, of the Wright team of aviators, went up for altitude at Belmont Park this afternoon and brought down the record of the day for distance. The fifth day of the International Aviation Meet opened full of promise and closed in a howling Wester tnat filled the air with whirling Autmun leaves, slammed down benches in the grand stand, ripped out the canvass screenes that bar the view of those who had not paid, but hope to gaze; and sent such a skirmish line of dust devils dancing around the track that the flame lamps had to be lighted outside the hangers for the mechanics to find their way about.

It was a furious end to a day of postponements, dissapointments and scattered feats of the most daring airmanship that have yet been shown to an American crowd.

Officially flights for the Gordon-Bennett elimination trials, to pick an American team, which shall defend the International trophy won at Rheims last year by Glenn H. Curtiss, opened at 9 o'clock this morning, but nobody cared to come out for them in the wind that was blowing. At half past one o'clock the special prize of $10,000, offered by Thomas Fortune Ryan, for a flight from the field to the Statue of Liberty and return, was open to any aviator, but none of them dared try. They chose to take advantage instead of the latest trials allowed them by the committee—permission to compete between 1:30 and 3:45 o'clock any afternoon during the meet, provided only that they should finish before 5:30.

That narrowed the programme down to one hourly event for distance and altitude. Latham, in an Antoinette monoplane, for distance, and those insatiate rivals, Hoxsey and Johnstone, of the Wright team for altitude, were the only ones to brave a gale of from 20 to 25 miles an hour.

It was stiff going. Johnstone and Hoxsey tried to imitate the gull, to set their wings and soar into the gale without effort, but they showed that the "way of an eagle in the air" is still of the few things man does not understand. They kept their poise beautifully, but although the speed of the biplane they were flying is normally 35 miles an hour and their engines were running wide open, they were pushed steadily out of view and down over the edge of the horizon. The upper gale they were jamming must have been more than 40 miles an hour, but neither was willing to come down before the other and they stuck it out until forced to land by sheer compulsion of the elements.

Both were driven miles off the course. Word came from Hoxsey first, that he had landed safely at Brentwod, L. I., about 20 miles distant. Johnstone, still resolute, stuck it out and was carried 55 miles, to Middle Island Village, L. I. Their's were the two longest flights of the day. Both telephoned in that they hoped to fly back to the course tomorrow.

For the first hourly distance event, the sole entrant was Latham, in an Antoinette. He finished the hour with only 2 laps, 21.7 miles, in 55 minutes, 24.50 seconds, and the figures show how persistent was his battle with the gale, but they cannot bring out as did the visual image itself his beautiful maneuvreing. One thousand feet above the grand stands, he jockeyed his way around the turns by sheer resourcefulness and nerve. The gale was so obstinate that he had to point head into it, and stear due north in order to edge sidewise, like a ferry boat in a run of tide and make distance to the west.

A special event for distance and altitude was added to the programme to amuse the crowd, but it was long before any one came out for it. Finally Audemars, a Swiss, in a tiny Demoiselle, danced over the course, but it was no weather for a yellow butterfly and after two rounds Audemars learned prefuence and went back to the hangars. To Brookins fell the easy money. With a flight lasting only 20 minutes in which he rose to minor altitude of 650 feet, he brought down $500 for first place in a special event for altitude and duration. It could not be called a contest because he had no competitor, but Brookins felt he had earned the money.

SHERMAN IS STILL IN STATE

Vice-President in Speech in Salisbury Defended the Tariff Law.—Given Reception After Speaking in Charlotte.

Charlotte, N. C. Oct. 27.—Vice-President James S. Sherman was the guest of the City of Charlotte tonight. He was dined at the Southern Manufacturers' Club, shortly after his arrival from Greensboro, addressed an immense audience that filled the auditorium to its capacity and following the meeting, was tendered a reception at the club.

Mr. Sherman will leave at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning for Asheville, where he is scheduled to make an address.

Salisbury, N. C., Oct. 27.—Vice-President Sherman addressed a large crowd here today from the rear platform of the special train, which is carrying him on his campaign tour of this section of the South. The Vice President was introduced by Representative C. A. Cowles.

He defended the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, citing the present high prices for farm and manufactured products and the prevailing high wages for labor as beneficial results of protective policies.

RAPS FOR NEW ORLEANS.

Could Not be Made Decent Community in 25 Years Says Preacher.

New Orleans, Oct. 27.—"The system of protecting vice in New Orleans is such that the hand of God Almighty could not make this a decent community inside of 25 years."

This declaration by Rev. James F. Chase, of Boston, featured the many raps administered to this city by those who came here to conduct a meeting of the American Purity Congress.

Mr. Chase said legislation had been provided for the protection of vice here and that it ought to be done away with.

B. S. Steadwell, president of the congress, did not think New Orleans so bad, and expressed the belief that vice could be eradicated within one year.

Owen O. Wiard, of Springsboro, Pa., discussed law enforcement. He said that we are only convicting a little more than 1 per cent of the murderers in the United States. The congress closed this afternoon.

H. H. NORTH IS DISMISSED.

Nagel Acts Upon Charges Filed Against Commissioner.

Washington, Oct. 27.—H. H. North, commissioner of immigration at Angel Island, San Francisco, was suspended from duty today by Secretary Nagel as the result of charges filed by F. H. Ainsworth, a special inspector at the San Francisco station.

The charge against Mr. North originated with a number of firms and individuals from the Pacific coast and the Asiatic Exclusion League. It was set forth that Mr. North had been admitting to entry through Angel Island, large numbers of Hindus, Chinese, Japanese and other Asiatics, considered by the Pacific coast people to be undesirable immigrants.

COLD WAVE COMING THIS WAY

Predicted by the Weather Bureau to Reach Atlantic States Today—Accompanied by Killing Frosts—Snow in West.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Killing frosts are predicted by the Weather Bureau for tomorrow morning throughout the eastern section of the country and almost as far south as the Gulf coast.

The frost accompanies the first well marked cool wave of the present season, influenced by a cold high aeria of great magnitude, which today covered the West with its center in the Rocky Mountain region. Over the plain States and central valleys the cold wave swept down today and was moving rapidly eastward. As the wave moves eastward from the Central States the weather in the Atlantic States will clear as the temperature falls.

Conditions generally prompted the Weather Bureau to order storm warnings displayed on the Great Lakes, along the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville, Fla., to Eastport, Me.; the Gulf coast from Tampa, Fla., to Brownsville, Texas, and at Tatoosh Island, Wash.

Gulf Coast Storm Warning.

New Orleans, Oct. 27.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon the local Weather Bureau issued a special storm warning for the Louisiana and Texas coasts and forecasted high northerly winds and colder weather generally over this section tonight and tomorrow.

Frost is indicated tonight and tomorrow for the northwest portion of Louisiana, Friday morning and freezing weather in Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Snowing in Michigan.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 27.—Northern Michigan is experiencing the first snow of the season. The snow is being driven by a 30-mile gale.

Over three inches of snow has fallen in two hours. All boats on Lake Superior are seeking shelter and steam and electric railway service is demoralized.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 27.—The first snow of the season fell here this afternoon with temperature near freezing.

LILY WHITES ORGANIZE.

South Carolina Republicans Will Put Out Ticket in 1912.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 27.—The Lily White Republican convention, called by John G. Capers, National Committeeman from this State, met today with delegates from all but nine counties and formed a party organization, the prime object of which is to eliminate the negro from the councils of the party and build up an opposition which will have some influence in elections. The convention decided not to put out a ticket this year, but to nominate candidates for Congress in all seven South Carolina districts in 1912.

The platform affirms allegiance to the principles of the National party as expressed in the last platform.

Capt. Capers stated today that while the meeting was not called at the suggestion of the President, yet it was not hostile to the administration. Its object, as he explained it, was to cast out the shiftless negroes who fail to qualify for the franchise.

GREET AERONAUTS BACK FROM WILDS

Air Voyagers Hawley and Post Honored Upon Arrival at Quebec.

TELL OF TRYING EXPERIENCE

Given Dinner at Mark of Formal Welcome Back to Civilization—Injury to Hawley Cause of Delay—The Trip.

Quebec, Que., Oct. 27—Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the heroes of the greatest balloon night on record, arrived here tonight after an experience that was more trying than earlier reports indicated, but mightily pleased because the cup for which they contested remains in America. The first day after leaving the America II., at the end of their journey on the banks of the Peribonka river, Mr. Hawley's leg was injured so badly that he was laid up for several hours and he has not yet entirely recovered from the effects of the hurt.

The arrival of the aeronauts here was made the occasion of the first formal welcome back to civilization of the men, who for several days were thought to be lost in the dense forests of northern Canada.

Gebhart Willrich, the American consul and several prominent men of the city, met the party upon the arrival of their train from Chicoutimi this evening and escorted them to the hotel Frontenac, where an informal dinner was given in their honor. After resting until 11 o'clock Messrs. Hawley and Post resumed the journey to New York. They will arrive in Montreal tomorrow morning and will take the first available train for New York City.

"There never was a time," said Mr. Hawley tonight, "when I considered that our lives were actually in danger, but our supply of food was very short and I consider that we were very fortunate in reaching Jacques Maltais in the cabin in the woods when we did. Taken altogether, it was not a disagreeable experience by any means and best of all the cup for which we made the flight remains at home."

From the data handed to Lewis Spindler, as a representative of the Aero Club of St. Louis, and the accounts of the journey given by Messrs. Hawley and Post tonight it is plainly indicated that the America II. was favored in catching the eastward sweep of the gale immediately after crossing the chain of Great Lakes and entirely escaped the center of still air which becalmed several of the contestants.

In describing the earlier part of the journey up to the time they were lost sight of over the State of Michigan, Mr. Post said:

"We followed a northeasterly course across the Mississippi and Missouri rivers and thence along the Illinois river into the State of Wisconsin. In the morning we were in a position just north of the city of Milwaukee, but over the lake. We descended so that our rope trailed in the water, but the air was light and we again rose high to get the eastern drift. That carried us up over the Lake Point au Sabie near Ludington. At that point the wind veered slightly to the north and we passed over Traverse City. From there we rose high again and again got the easterly drift.

"We crossed Lake Huron during the night and were high over Georgian Bay and the country immediately north of it. We made our highest altitudes at this stage of the journey. The wind had a strong drift to the northeast and as we dropped a trifle lower after passing Lake Nipissing the wind was whipping us along at a tremendous speed.

"We could see from the character of the country below us that it would be almost impossible to move a foot so we decided to go on. We again went into the higher levels and at one time our barograph registered five thousand meters, which is the limit. We then saw in the distance what we supposed was the town of Normandin Lake, St. John. This was at about 1:30 P. M., on Wednesday. The country looked favorable for a landing and we decided to come down. The speed at which we were going, however, carried us beyond the place we had picked out. We were carried over a small hill. Considering the circumstances we made a very good landing in what we later learned was the east of the Peribonka river and near a chain of small lakes.

"A very heavy thunderstorm came up and we slept in the basket that night. The next morning we saw that it was impossible to move the balloon and we packed up for the journey on foot. We slept in the woods Thursday night. Hawley injured his leg in the afternoon.

"After we had covered about seven miles along the shore of Lake Chilogama we went into camp early, making it as comfortable as possible by using balsam boughs."

Here Mr. Hawley interrupted Mr. Post's narrative to explain how his leg was hurt.

"We were going through a dense tangle of brambles and fallen timbers and making very poor progress. In working my way through I leaped upon what looked like a slid log. It crumbled beneath me and my whole weight was suddenly thrown upon my right leg, which bent under me."

Continuing, Mr. Post said: "On account of Mr. Hawley's injured leg we took it easy Friday and went into camp early. On Saturday on the short of a small lake we came upon the cabin of Jacques Maltais. He was absent at the time, but we enjoyed his hospitality for that night and the whole of the following day. Unfortunately, the cabin was bare of supplies.

"About 9 o'clock Monday morning, Mr. Hawley went to the bank of the lake and shouted 'Hello' several times. The call was answered and a short time later Josef Peneaud and Josef Simon, two trappers, paddled up in a canoe.

After explaining our situation to them they readily agreed to aid us in reaching the nearest habitation. We went by canoe to Lake Blanche, where we camped Monday night. Our new found friends caught some trout and we enjoyed the first good meal in a long time. The remainder of our journey to Chicoutimi was comparatively easy."

Over a score of telegrams containing words of parise for the achievements of the aeronauts and extending congratulations were delivered to Messrs. Hawley and Post on their arrival here.

FOREIGN MISSIONS YEAR OF PROGRESS

Most Gratifying Reports to North Carolina Synod at Rocky Mount.

THE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Great Endowment Campaign Planned—Beneficence, Church Paper, Davidson College and Other Church Interests

(By Miss Mamie Bays.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., Oct. 27.—When the minutes of the Synod of North Carolina come from the press they will contain nothing of more interest and nothing of more importance to the church than the figures showing what has been contributed during the year just closed for the cause of foreign missions, according to Presbyteries and the comparison of these figures with those of the year before will be noted with special interest.

These figures will show that according to Presbyteries, the contributions are as follows: Albermarle, $2,309 against $1,509 last year, an increase of $800; Asheville $1,561 against $1,464, increase $97; Concord $7,105 against $8,018, decrease $913; Fayetteville $10,854, against $8,652, increase $2,292; King's Mountain $1,692, against $2,174, decrease $482; Orange $12,778, against $11,452, increase $1,326; Mecklenburg $10,958, against $10,748, increase $210; Wilmington $26,442 against $14,491, increase $11,951.

These figures show that in two Presbyteries only has there been a decrease in contributions and the increase in the other six has been so large as to give a decided increase in the total for the Synod. The increase in Wilmington Presbytery, which leads the Synod and in the First Presbyterian church of Wilmington, which leads all the churches of Synod, is especially interesting. The membership of the First Church increased its per capita contributions from $17.26 to $30.

Synod met at 9 o'clock this morning and Rev. Geo. W. Belk conducted the devotional service. The minutes were read and approved. The report on Systematic Beneficence was the first submitted this morning and the following figures show a decided increase over the amount given to the beneficences last year. The amount to Assembly's Home Mission this year was $14,584, to local Home Missions $5,312; to Colored Evangelization, $2,532; to Ministerial Relief, $4,207; to Ministerial Education, $6,065; to Orphans' Home, $15,586; to Bible Cause. $1,068; these including also the amount given to Publication and Sabbath School Work, home and school and miscellaneous causes, bringing the grand total for all beneficences $441,658 and giving an increase of $130,967 over the contributions of last year, not including the $73,699 to foreign missions.

The report on Woman's Societies was submitted, showing that during the year these societies have contributed a total of $28,656. The amount contributed to foreign missions was $9,024 of which $4,858 was to home missions and $4,809 to local causes.

The statistical report was submitted showing the membership of the churches in Synod to be 44,435, the number of additions on professions of faith, 2,187, additions on certificates, 1,788, funds raised for all purposes $482,910, churches organized 7, churches dissolved 4, candidates received 24, candidates transferred 5.

EVERY PROMISE FULFILLED NOW

Will Count For More Just at Present Than Ever Again- Two Bright Candidates For Popularity.

Now, today, in fact this very hour, is the time when every promise should be fulfilled, and all subscriptions turned in. The very fact that the five-vote coupons are in the paper each day counting for five votes should be an extra incentive for a man to subscribe today instead of waiting till tomorrow, because it may be possible that that subscription held off for the next nine days losing the contestant only 45 votes, will be the means of making a friend lose one of the prizes.

Everyone who has promised a subscription to a contestant should be interested enough in his or her welfare to come to the front at once and allow their favorite to turn it in and thereby fortify themselves for the last night's count. There is no time like right now to do what you are figuring on doing later, as by giving in your subscription now you will save your favorite the trouble of having to come back to you and he or she can have that much more time to see someone else who has not promised them and get that many more votes to their credit. Then, too, remember that the subscriptions will count more up to Saturday night than they will ever after and it is not very long till the special offer will be called off.

Inaugurate Special Campaign.

Do your best, inaugurate your campaign for the last nine days of the contest, follow it closely, watch every vote, gather every coupon; in case an error should happen to be made by the contest department, our attention should be called to it at once so it can be looked after and corrected. Owing to the number of votes that are counted each and every day it is sometimes impossible to keep track of each and every contestant's name after it leaves the contest department and is turned over to the printer. Of course, proof is read on every bit of copy that goes into the composing room, but typographical errors are easily made and therefore the contest department wishes you to keep a sharp lookout and see that you are given a proper count in the paper. On the last night of the contest only the reserve votes will be counted by your representatives and added to the amount that was published in the paper last.

The contest department is today publishing the photos of two of the hustlers of the contest in the city, Samuel Behrends, Jr., and William West, Jr., who seem to manage to keep about neck and neck. Both are bright little fellows and either of them is well worthy of the highest prize, and in their friendly tug of war it is hard at present to tell just which will be the lucky one.

Remember to have your vote coupons in for publication by noon of the preceding day of publication. The standing at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon was as follows:

CAROLINA FRUIT EXCHANGE.

Meeting of Members and Growers Called Tomorrow Week.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 25.

To Members and All Strawberry Growers:

The Committee of Growers from Chadbourn, who were identified with the organization of the Carolina Fruit Exchange last Spring, have, on my request, set a date for a meeting of all members who co-operated in the movement, and they are desirous of having all berry growers attend.

The date for the meeting has been set for Saturday, November 5th, at 2 P. M., at Chadbourn. At this meeting a report will be made of the operations of last season, and we feel that the results of last year's work has been such as will assure the growers that through the co-operative plan of marketing they can successfully overcome, to a large extent, the difficulties of the past, and if, with the percentage of the crop handled last year, the results accomplished were possible—how much greater success can be expected with a greater proportion of the growers working together for their mutual benefit and protection? It is our purpose to undertake operations on the Weldon Road, during the coming season, if conditions warrant.

There are a great many questions to be worked out before another season opens up, such as improved schedules, standard crate and cup question to conform to requirements of various States in the Department of Weights and Measures; certain necessary changes in tariffs of the railroads must be handled.

By a united effort we can secure help from the Agricultural Department on the berry weevil and action should be started early enough for them to commence their work in proper season.

We should be able to get the Agricultural Department to place in North Carolina their pre-cooling cars which have been operating in California, and which the Georgia Fruit Exchange succeeded in getting at Fort Valley, Ga., during the last peach season for purposes of experiment in the effect of pre-cooling on fruit.

Please be sure to attend, and bring your neighbor, whether he be a member or not. Remember the date, Saturday, November 5th.

Yours truly,
CAROLINA FRUIT EXCHANGE.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

Stubborn Blaze Swept Several Blocks in Victoria, B. C.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 27.—After burning 14 hours in the business quarter of Victoria and destroying many of the finest blocks, at a loss of $1,000,000, a stubborn fire was extinguished today.

Half a dozen firemen had narrow escapes when a portion of the Fort street wall of the Five Sisters Block collapsed.

The fire started shortly after 10:30 o'clock last night in the department store of David Spencer & Company, limited, one of the largest retail establishments in Victoria. Fanned by a high wind the flames spread with alarming rapidity. The recently organized fire brigade found itself unable to cope with the conflagration and the troops were called out. The soldiers not only aided in keeping order among the frightened, half clad crowds, but manned the fire apparatus and helped the fire brigade combat the flames.

The buildings burned were the office and the Five Sisters building, a five story office block.

The district burned was in the heart of the retail district. It includes all the buildings between Government and Broad streets, extending from Fort street to the alley back of Trounce avenue.

COLUMBUS NEWS NOTES.

Great Parade at Chadbourn—War Against Near-Beer—State Senate.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., October 26—A gentleman who counted the school children in the parade at Chadbourn last Tuesday says there were 820 in line. Miss Margaret Baldwin, of Whiteville, who has many friends in Wilmington, won the barrel of flour given by one of your enterprising merchants for the best cake exhibited. Rev. F. T. Wooten, County Superintendent of Schools, says that when he went into office there was not a painted school-house in the county, but we have now 35 including a number of high schools. Nothing has made greater advance in Columbus in the past decade than the educational institutions, and the praise is alone due to Mr. Wooten.

Hon. J. A. Brown, in speaking of the growth and immensity of the strawberry business in Columbus county, says if the crates grown here since the industry was started a few years ago were placed end to end, they would reach from Chadbourn to Boston, or to Jacksonville. When Mr. Brown asked all farmers in the audience who had this year grown over 50 bushels of corn per acre to hold up their hands, hands went up all over the audience. Another thing that the exhibit showed was that the farmers of Columbus county have gone largely into raising improved breeds of poultry. A great many breeds of fine fowl were on exhibition. Next spring Whiteville will have a poultry show.

The minutes of the Cape-Fear-Columbus Baptist Association, held at Mt. Tabor, have just been received, and they contain a strong set of resolutions denouncing the licensing of near-beer saloons, and demanding that the next session of the Legislature enact a law abolishing them. The preachers and churches of the county are waging a vigorous war against near-beer dies, and they say they must go. Nearly every town in Columbus has one, but they don't seem to be so well patronized as when first opened. Their popularity is certainly on the wane.

Hon. Donald MacRackan published a card in which he says he wont make the race for State Senator from this district, comprising the counties of Columbus and Bladen. Mr. MacRackan vigorously protests against the means he says were used to secure his defeat by the Clarkton convention, but ends by saying he does not wish to imperil the success of the Democratic party by precipitating a contest. He was willing to submit the matter to the State Executive Committee. The friends of Hon. J. A. Brown, the nominee, says if there was any irregularity about the Clarkton convention that he (Brown) had no hand therein, for he accepted the nomination reluctantly and only to promote harmony in the party. He did not wish the nomination, and so stated to those who proposed his name.

DRIVERS' STRIKE SPREADS.

Service Almost Halted at Grand Union and West Shore Stations.

New York, Oct. 27.—The strike of express wagon drivers and helpers spread from the New Jersey water front to Manhattan today and simultaneously assumed a more serious aspect. Service was almost halted at both the Grand Central and West Shore stations in this city and tonight threat of a general strike in an effort to tie up the whole Metropolitan district was made by officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. There was further rioting during the day following the arrival of strike-breakers from New York in Jersey City.

Wagon helpers employed by both the Adams and American Express companies in New York, joined the walk-out and the Adams company helpers in Jersey City also struck. Both the United States and Wells-Fargo companies previously had been involved in the trouble.

Efforts of the companies to continue the service with strike-breakers brought out the threat of a general strike. In this event, it was intimated drivers for stores and factories would be called out if they were asked to deliver goods to the express stations. W. H. Ashton, general organizer, and Val Hoffman, first vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, are here aiding in the direction of the strike.

SAVINGS ACCOUNT IN NATIONAL BANK

The Contest Manager of the big Popularity Contest now being conducted by the Star accounts himself exceedingly fortunate in having entered into an arrangement by which the six savings bank accounts of $25 each offered as a prize in each district of the territory will be offered in a National Bank—the American National, of Wilmington. This is of vital importance to the winners of these prizes and the Contest Manager is sure that this arrangement will be very gratifying to those who are so fortunate as to receive one of these accounts the day the contest is closed.

In selecting these Savings Bank accounts the Contest Manager is confident that he will be encouraging the winners to add to these amounts from time to time and to implant a spirit of thrift that will redound to the interest of the holders of these accounts for years to come. The old-time prejudice against savings, when Uncle Sam now becomes surety for each and every depositor in a National Bank, is rapidly passing away. Really the bank officials and bank clerks in these National banks are only the employes of Uncle Sam and he stands squarely behind the depositor.

Of course, as far as interest is concerned, most banks give fair interest, but you never have a more solid foundation for your bank account, along with the architectural decorations of interest, until you build upon the National bank, for in others at times, it is as with buildings, if the foundation is not solid, then the decorations are sure to crumble when the building does and then you lose all. The National bank does away with the reasons that made some people skeptical, for that is a part of Uncle Sam's method of taking care of his people.

The Value of Saving.

So much for the place to put it. Now you say, "Well, what have I to put? It takes all I have to live." Of course it does. It takes all anyone makes to live, but the proposition is, that you put it into the wrong place, and thereby are not using it right to live on. Living today and taking no thought of the morrow!

It is perfectly natural for it to take all you make to live. If it did not there would be no use having to work at all after a while, and you would surely have a miserable time of it.

Now, we'll say you use up your money in making someone else rich, not in actual cost of necessities, remember, at least—Well how much? you answer: Clothes cost, board and lodging cost. How much real pleasure do you get out of the rest? For naturally we must have pleasure and recreation. How much are you paying for your pleasures? Maybe the cost is too high and if so, here is the chance to get a start.

If you bought a piece of cloth, or a suit of clothes, you'd ask the price of it; if it were too high you'd do without it. Do you do so with buying pleasure? Do you realize that some day you will be old and unable to care of yourself? or indisposed to, if able?

Don't you see that we have five things of vital importance to consider in spending your money? namely: sleeping, (a place), eating, clothing and old age, and usually old age goes lacking on account of some of the others, for if you pay too much or more than these others are worth, old age or some of the others must of necessity go begging. Now, which is it you are paying the exorbitant price for? Have you a bank account? Then old age is at least getting a share, but you need have no fear that old age is the one towards which you are paying too much, for remember he pays you for what you do for him and with interest at 4 per cent. and sometimes compounded. Is it the landlady, for board and lodging? Seldom, ask them.

Then we have the two bank robbers, clothes and pleasure. Which of these are cheating old age? Look it up for yourself.

Independence.

The habit of saving must be acquired the same as any other habit, and once acquired, simply follows up the other species by becoming hard to break away from, for with the savings growing little by little, we feel an independence that is not gained by any other method. At first the independence is only felt by the one who has the account, then it finally changes his or her attitude toward the general public till they come to notice it, when the public, looking for the reason of this change, find it, then they too feel the independence of that person themselves.

If a person, especially the younger part of humanity, could only half realize not only the value of, but the swiftness with which a savings account, once started, grows, there would not be a person of sufficient age to understand anything, that would not have a neat little bank account to his or her credit.

The American National Bank.

When once started in the American National Bank, a savings account soon begins to show itself, regardless of the small portions that are laid aside, for it is not so much the amounts as it is the regularity that counts. Any man, woman, boy or girl, who has any amount of money, can easily afford to put aside a portion of it each day, week or month, however small the earnings may be. The principle thing is in starting. Once started, the habit easily takes care of itself, but though they say over and over to themselves each day that they are going to put aside so much for that "Rainy Day" the very fact that they have such easy access to it proves fatal and soon they spend the little start they had.

Put it in a bank, where it is not so easy to reach, and the fascination of the bank book will take you and you will continually add to it. One of the beauties of a savings acount aside from the general independence, is that whenever you need the money you have it right there handy, instead of having to go about and borrow from your friends. The old talk of a rainy day is a good thing to listen to and take heed of, for there are many who do not, and when the hard time does come, with the loss of a position, or some dear one far away needing your attention, and you have not the cash beside you, then you indeed envy the person you are wont to call rich a little sneeringly perhaps because he or she have only been wiser than you and have managed to save a part of their sometime meagre income, no larger than yours. A young man perhaps only making $10 per week, thinks that it would not be possible for him to save any of it, and at once proceeds to, after paying his board of $6, give the rest of it to his friends' enjoyment, in the delusion that it will do no good for him to put such a small portion of it away as he can afford, while his friends are saving theirs perhaps and while calling him a good fellow, are simply taking his own word and signs of what he really is in thus throwing away his money.

I wish I were able to go from the East to the Tennessee line and tell this message to all the people. I have not long to live. I have children and grandchildren; but I say to you that no stroke of this right hand shall aid in putting the Republican party over these children and grandchildren. I say it because I have tried it in the past and, having tried it in the past and having found nothing but ruin and disgrace, I cannot help but fight it now.—C. B. Watson.

"Whither is the Republican party drifting?' inquires a Republican who doesn't like the drift of his party. If he keeps his eyes skinned he will find it drifting "off Hatteras" on and after November 8th.

It is hardy necessary to say Mrs. Minor Morris knows one crook that Col. Roosevelt doesn't chase. She wouldn't mind stating who it is if she could only arrange for a joint debate with the Rough Rider.

New Mexico recently went Republican and is now claiming a part of Texas. It is just like Republicans to begin depredations as soon as they get in. Texas ought to let the new Republican State have some of her Democratic territory as a joke.

The real fact that a clean, honest man like Woodrow Wilson is running for Governor astonishes the natives in New Jersey. If they will quit voting for Republicans from force of habit they have a chance to elect a Governor who will add something to the reputation of Jersey.

A Washington man has married a girl who can speak four languages while he can understand her only when she speaks English. When she takes a notion to rake him over the coals it is safe to assert that he will prefer for her to use the three languages he can't understand. Comprehending and misunderstanding what others say to us and about us is what hurts. "Ignorance is bliss" but knowledge is blister.

High prices limit the ability of people to buy what they need. Lack of means to pay the price makes few customers. Few customers make trade dull. Dull trade makes business drag. High protective tariffs enable trusts to increase prices and the result is fictitious values. Increased prices with no increase in wages make poor people poorer. When a man buys less with his earnings than he could a few years ago the purchasing power of his dollar has been decreased. A reduction of the purchasing power of men's wages or salaries is equivalent to reducing the real value of the amount paid him for his services. The man who votes for a high tariff and high prices votes to cut down the purchasing power of his earnings. He does that for the benefit of favored classes rolling in wealth, while himself and his own family must suffer from the consequence of not being able to get very much for the money they spend. The man who gets the real benefit of protection would be a fool or overly conscientious not to vote for the tariff that enriches him, but the mere consumer who votes for a tariff that impoverishes himself ought to be locked up by his wife and kept home on election day for the good of the family.

Don't forget the special 30-minute sale at Rehder's today, 10 cent double width suiting only 5 cents the yard Eight-inch China plates 5 cents, cup and saucers 5 cents. 10:30 to 11 and 4:30 to 5 o'clock. **

MAKING A CITY.

Cities are not made by one man. A one-horse town may be the product of some one interprising citizen, but unless there are more like him the town will not grow into a city. Earnest co-operation, united effort and aggregate enterprise makes a city out of a town. The whole community must be alive and work together to promote the commercial interests and industrial growth of their city.

Some people think if their city only had one industrial leader or a professional booster, it would ensure its development. The leader and the booster are needed all right and they are powerful factors, but they can do nothing if the business men and citizens do not co-operate with them. It takes 'a strong pull and a pull all together" to bring about any development beyond the normal growth of a city.

Recently the Charleston Chamber of Commerce got a move on it and made a vigorous campaign for a larger and greater organization. Great interest was stirred up and several hundred members were added to the membership roll. Citizens of all interests and classes became members and a bg advertising fund was raised for the purpose of giving publicity to Charleston's advantages and attracting attention to the possibilities of that port. The movement was an earnest one and demonstrated that there is both public spirit and enterprise in South Carolina's chief city. The Chamber of Commerce pluckily determined to employ a professional city promoter—an expert booster—and one of the best known and most successful men in that line was secured as the Chamber's "managing secretary." He has arrived in Charleston and has gone to work on well laid plans for a greater Charleston.

Charleston's "managing secretary' is Mr. A. W. McKeand who has done some marvellous work in city boosting and building in the West and Southwest. He knows his lines and has things astir in the old city. The Chamber of Commerce has been divided into branches—the "Ad Club" to advertise the city, the Retailers club, the Wholesalers' club, the Industries club, etc. Managing Secretary McKeand is working on a definite plan to make Charleston grow, and there is to be system 'c work to induce the establishment of manufactories in Charleston. However, the plan is one thing and carrying it out is another.

Charleston need not re-organize her Chamber on a big scale, then rest on her oars and leave the rest to Managing Secretary McKeand. He can do his part, but he can't do it all. The citizens have to do their part and he has given them to understand that they must co-operate with him. He has put a spirit of hustle and co-operation into the business men, and has addressed a letter to the members of the Chamber calling upon them for earnest and continuous co-operation. The different branches meet weekly and they must be well attended. The Managing Secretary's office is open daily from 8 A. M. till 530 P. M. and all citizens of Charleston who have an idea or plan to make Charleston grow are urged to show up at his office and tell it.

Those Charlestonians must not get it into their heads that they are going to be allowed to loaf around and put off all the work on the managing secretary. They have got to get a hustle on them and do some co-operating. This also applies to Wilmington, and Wilmingtonians may as well be given to understand that they have to quit hugging their own business all day and then lock up and go home without a thought of what they can do for the city—for a greater Wilmington. Every live citizen who has not joined the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce should do so at once and apologize for shirking his share of the work for Wilmington. The Chamber has commodious rooms, but Secretary J. A. McGeachy gets so lonesome up there he thinks the members have forgotten they belong to the Chamber. They do not drop in often enough. All that lack of seeming indifference will have to be changed to a keen interest. If the members get together oftener their interest will be increased. Somebody will sooner or later spring a new idea and that would bring on others. Some of the ideas might be worth working upon and might set the whole Chamber to working in an effective manner. Let the Chamber of Commerce get a move on it after the election is out of the way.

SOUTH ATLANTIC QUARTERLY.

The South has a magazine of peculiarly intellectual type—something "different" from the average American publication of the magazine class. It is the South Atlantic Quarterly, published at Durham, N. C., and edited by President W. P. Few and Prof. W. H. Glasson, of Trinity College. While its place of publication is in North Carolina, it embodies Southern thought expressed on broad lines and produced in a scholarly manner. For the scope of this publication it has no superior, as a vehicle of intellectuality, among the magazines of the United States. It has a high type of individuality and a distinctly literary character that places it along with the best publications of its class. Fine ability is displayed in the production of the South Atlantic Quarterly and it can be easily classed as one of the South's leading publications. If any fault were to be found with it, it is that its scope is not broadened into a publication distinctly Southern and representing the entire South in every feature of its development and progress. It deserves to be supported throughout the South and made what the ability and learning of its editors are eminently capable of making it.

The October number of the South Atlantic Quarterly has been received by the Star and in contents it is an intellectual treat and a most informing and valuable publication. The features are all admirable and intensely entertaining, but there are three articles deserving of special mention. One of these is entitled "Judge Martin's Version of the Mecklenburg Declaration," an article from the pen of Capt. Samuel A. Ashe, of Raleigh, a gifted and learned North Carolinian whose presentation of this bit of history is intensely interesting in facts and conclusions.

Another article of striking merit is a contribution by Prof. William K. Boyd, of Trinity, who gives us "Three Studies of Southern Problems." Prof. Boyd reviews three recent books concerning the South. One of these books is "The Southern South," by Albert Bushnell Hart, Harvard University. The second is "Thro' Afro-America," by William Archer, who is English born. The third book is entitled "Social and Mutual Traits of the Negro," by Howard W. Odom, of Columbia University. Prof. Boyd draws distinctions between these three books giving viewpoints on Southern problems from the standpoint of observers and authors not identified with the South and not actuated by its sentiments. As a critic Prof. Boyd is analytical and he does not spare in his criticism of the views of the authors, pointing out their misconceptions and errors made from observations during hasty travels and from other motives. Prof. Boyd's article is timely and it is characterized by a style and sentiment that will be appreciated by thoughtful Southerners and should impress those not Southerners who may be misled by some of the deductions of any one of the three authors who are discussed by the Trinity professor.

The third article featured in the South Atlantic Quarterly is "The South Carolina Mill Village." This article is by Mr. Thomas F. Parker, a South Carolina manufacturer, who entertains us with an illuminating discussion of the mill village question and demonstrating the splendid progress made in providing model conditions and accommodation for mill help and for their uplift along various lines. Mr. Parker's article will open the eyes of the world to the progress which is being made in the physical surroundings of the South's cotton manufacturing industries and it will disabuse the public mind of many of the fallacies and misrepresentations abroad concerning Southern manufacturing and the condition and care of the mill operatives. The magazine also contains some fugitive poems of Paul Hamilton Hayne, besides several articles quite as meritorious as those which we have named.

The South Atlantic Quarterly is sent for $2 a year and sells at 50 cents a copy. North Carolina readers should not fail to read the October number and keep up generally with this fine North Carolina publication.

CURRENT COMMENT.

"Charlotte going ahead," is the way the Wilmington Star puts it. We thought Charlotte was already ahead. —Greenville Reflector.

The "thick" silence now prevailing seems to indicate that the Hon. Thos. Settle's definition of the two-edged plank will be allowed to stand "Why don't somebody speak?"—Asheville Citizen.

Since every paper that opposes Roosevelt is subisdized by Wall Street and practically every paper in the country is opposing him it is evident either that the newspapers are very cheap or that Wall Street will go broke.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

Persons who are fond of musing over what might have been are reminded that in the Republican National convention held in Philadelphia in 1900 Lafayette Young, of Iowa, took the platform to nominate Theodore Rosevelt of New York for Vice President, which he did after withdrawing the name of Jonathan P. Dolliver, Iowa's candidate for the position. Now let your imagination play on the thought if Dolliver had been Vice President when McKinley was assassinated—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

The depth to which Theodore Roosevelt has sunk may be measured by a plummet furnished by Cornell University. So powerful is the opposition among the students and faculty of that institution to its being lent to Roosevelt explitation, that it is said Roosevelt has cancelled his engagement to speak there. And this is the Roosevelt who a few months ago was being canvassed as an availability for the president of Harvard University, the University of Michigan, and many other of the foremost institutions of learning. How have the mighty fallen.—Buffalo (N. Y.) Express.

The Swiss Society of Public Utility for Women is urging a law under which all young women, wed or unwed, will be physically examined, as are their brothers, on entering the Swiss army. The certificate of this examination is to be required before marriage, to attest health and freedom from disease. A reciprocal certificate is, of course, to be required of young men. The Philadelphia Press tells us something we did not know, viz: Western States, including Indiana, have already passed laws requiring a certificate of health before a marriage certificate is issued. There is not much danger of a law of that kind becoming general in this country. Cupid would be too strong for it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

There is a sort of malady this Fall among cows in the Reems creek country caused by the eating of acorns, it is said. The cows go dry, or give down a thin, watery liquid instead of milk, and in some cases die. Robert Weaver lost a cow yesterday on this account and has two more that almost died, but which will probably get well. The three had been sick for over a week. There have been two or three other cases in the same community. According to those who have made note of the sickness it is caused by eating acorns and is somewhat rare, being noticed more frequently in those years when there is an abundant fall of acorns in the flat woods, or wherever the cows run in pasturage. The best "cow doctors" could do nothing to relieve the cows, the only thing to do being to let them alone. It is supposed that after the acorns are eaten in excess, fermentation sets up in such a degree that the cow is poisoned by carbonic acid gas absorption. The people are very much concerned about the matter and in some cases are not letting their cows run in the woods.—Asheville Gazette-News.

A. & M. COLLEGE.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

West Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27.—At a recent meeting of the Freshman class, L. L. Merritt, of Wilmington, was eelcted manager of the class football team.

The A. & M. exhibit at the recent State Fair was one of the most comprehensive in the history of the college. There were exhibits by the Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Agricultural and Textile departments.

Owing to rain on the day the Company competitive drill was to be held at the State Fair grounds, the drill has been postponed to some time in the early Spring.

Monday morning in chapel the student body was addressed by Dr. Ferrell, secretary of the State Hookworm Commission, in regard to this widespread disease, its method of treatment, etc. An examination of the students to determine the per cent. infected with hookworm, is now being held.

Regular basketball practice is now being held three times a week on the old athletic field. The squad now numbers between 30 and 40 men. This year A. & M. will have as a forward Frank Crowell, of Charlotte, who was an all-Southern forward last year.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the approaching football game with Eastern College of Virginit, as Ross, all-South Atlantic tackle, '08, and Spencer, all-South Atlantic halfback the same year, both old A. & M. men, are this year at Eastern College and will be seen in the game Saturday. In anticipation of a hard game Coach Green has been putting his men through hard practice for the past three days. All of the men have recovered from any bruises received in the Villa Nova game last week, and the team as a whole is in very good shape.

Beginning next Friday night the North Carolina Students' Bible Study Institute will be held here at the college. All of the preparatory schools and colleges of the State will be represented.

The sessions of the institute will continue through Saturday and Sunday. Friday night President W. W. Moore, of the Union Theological Seminary, of Richmond, Va., will deliver an address, and Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of the University of South Carolina, will speak.

THE DRAINAGE CONVENTION

Press Bulletin Issued by Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt-Letter from President J. A. Brown—One Thousand Expected.

The local committee of arrangements for the forthcoming third annual convention of the North Carolina Drainage Association in this city, Mr. B. F. Keith, chairman, is much gratified at the outlook for a very successful meeting in every respect. A letter from President J. A. Brown, of Chadbourn, to Mr. Keith yesterday, stated that there should be from 800 to 1,000 delegates.

Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist, has issued Press Bulletin No. 41, announcing the meeting here and containing many facts of interest. The bulletin is as follows:

The Third Annual Convention of the North Carolina Drainage Association will be held at Wilmington, N. C., November 21, 22 and 23, 1910. Since the last convention, which was held at New Bern in 1909, interest in the drainage of swamp and overflowed lands has steadily increased and applications for many new drainage districts have been made. This is true not only of eastern North Carolina but of the Piedmont region where a number of surveys have been made in regard to the reclamation of overflowed lands.

A very attractive programme for the Convention is being arranged and among the speakers who, it is expected, will make addresses are Governor W. W. Kitchen, Hon. John H. Small, Congressman from the First Congressional District, Hon. John M. Morehead, Congressman from the Fifth Congressional District, Hon. C. G. Elliott, of the Office of Drainage Investigations, U. S. Department of Agriculture, J. O. Wright, Drainage Engineer for the State of Florida, E. T. Lamb, President of the Norfolk Southern Railway Company, W. J. Craig, of the Atlantic Coast Line, Hugh MacRae, member of the North Carolina Geological Board, Lawrence Brett, Drainage Engineer, Hon. Geo. B. McLeod, of Lumberton, Hon. O. L. Clark, of Bladen County, Senator F. M. Simmons. Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist. Joseph A. Brown, of Columbus County, and S. S. Mann, of Hyde Coutny

FAILURE OF MR. E. J. POWERS

Former Wilmington Man Files Petition in Bankruptcy in U. S. Court at Atlanta—Unprofitable Traction Investments.

The Atlanta Journal of yesterday has the following which will be read with interest and regret by hundreds of friends in this city of Mr. E. J. Powers, who formerly resided here and was prominent in the business and social life of the city:

"Mr. E. J. Powers who came to Atlanta about ten years ago with a comfortable fortune, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, Tuesday afternoon, in the United States court, in which he says that his liabilities amount to $395,696.77; and that he has no assets except his wearing apparel and some worthless stock in the Old Georgia Manufacturing and Public Service Company, of Marietta.

"This company went into bankruptcy in 1908. Mr. Powers was vice president of it and one of the principal owners of stock. It is said that it was in the failure of the company that he lost his money.

"He gives among his liabilities $300,000 worth of notes due to the Trust Company of Georgia; and two notes, each for $19,750, due to the Neal Bank. None of the other items in his schedule of liabilities are for more than $5,000, with the exception of a guarantee contract to Mrs. F. Drake, of California, for $15,000. In all, 29 separate debts are named among Mr. Powers' liabilities.

"He is the second officer of the Georgia Manufacturing and Public Service company to go into bankruptcy. M. M. Sessions, of Marietta, president of the company, and, after Mr. Powers, the heaviest stockholder, filed voluntary petition in bankruptcy on November 25, 1908, about four months after an involuntary petition was filed against the company.

"The Georgia Public Service and Manufacturing company was organized to supply the city of Marietta with water and electric light. In addition to its electric light plant and waterworks system, it owned a paper mill at Marietta.

"After it had been forced into bankruptcy, a receiver's report was made in which it was stated that the company had assets amounting to $1,480,361.28. It was esti ated that the plants and equipment of the waterworks and electric light systems and the paper mill were worth $883,402.18.

"Mr. Powers and other stockholders in the company invested over $1,000,000 in it.

"After this company had gone into the hands of a receiver it was bought up by the Trust Company of Georgia and is now operating as the Nennesaw Paper company.

"The notes mentioned by Mr. Powers in his schedule of liabilities were given by the Georgia Manufacturing and Public company and were indorsed by him.

"Sixty notes, each to the amount of $5,000, were given to the Trust Company of Georgia. These were secured by first mortgage bonds on property of the company.

"Mr. Powers came to Atlanta from Wilmington, N. C. He now lives at 734 Peachtree street."

MR. CHARLES W. HILL.

Well Known Young Wilmingtonian Passes Away in Baltimore.

Many friends and relatives in this city were shocked yesterday morning to learn of the death of Mr. Charles Wheeler Hill, a well known and popular young Wilmingtonian, who pased away in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, whither he had gone several days ago for treatment and an operation, if necessary. While the death was not unexpected, it came nevertheless as a great shock to relatives and friends.

Mr. Hill was a son of the late A. J. Hill and a grandson of the late Arthur J. Hill, of Wilmington, and was 34 years of age. He had lived here all his life and was held in the highest esteem by veryone in the circle of his acquaintance. Modest and retiring in his disposition, yet as true as steel, Charlie Hill, as he was affectionately known, was loved by all. The news of his death came as a shock to many who knew him yesterday. For many years, Mr. Hill was with the Holmes Grocery Co., of this city, but for the past few years until the time of his death, he had been bookkeeper for Mr. Jos. H. Watters. Faithful to every duty and an efficient accountant, he was held in high esteem by all his employers. He is survived of the immediate family, only by his aunt, Mrs. Kate Hill, with whom he resided on Orange street and who has the tenderest sympathy of the community in the loss of one who was ever to her, dutiful, tender and true.

The remains will arrive this afternoon from Baltimore and will be taken to St. John's Episcopal church, whence the funeral will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon; thence to Oakdale cemetery, where the interment will take place.

BODY TAKEN TO SUMTER.

Captain Hugh R. Garden Will be Buried in His Native Town.

Accompanied by the grief-stricken wife, a few relatives and friends, the body of Capt. Hugh Richardson Garden, who passed away at Southport Tuesday, was brought to this city on the government boat Madeleine yesterday morning and taken on the afternoon Coast Line train to Sumter, S. C., where he was born, and the funeral and interment will take place there.

The Columbia Record, Wednesday afternoon had the following regarding Capt. Garden, who was well known in the Palmetto capital:

"Columbians, more especially those of the older generation, recall many interesting things in connection with Captain Hugh Richardson Garden, who died suddenly Tuesday, aged 70, at Southport, N. C. A native of Sumter, in youth a student at the University of South Carolina, in his young manhood one of the most dashing artillery officers in the Confederate army, Captain Garden was in later years the friend and companion of Grover Cleveland, a bibliophile of note and one of the most famous lawyers of New York city.

"Captain Garden was related to the Gibbes family, of Columbia; his own family, in fact, formerly bore the name of Gibbes, the change to Garden having been made by one of his ancestors because of some peculiar provision in respect of an inheritance. Prof. Charles M. Furman, at present professor of English at Clemson College, was Captain Garden's brother-in-law, his first wife, the mother of Mr. Alester G. Furman, of Greenville, having been Captain Garden's sister, Miss Frances E. Garden, of Sumter. Mrs. Constance T. F. Herbert, wife of the Rev. Walter I. Herbert, of Charleston, is Captain Garden's niece

"Captain Garden was intensely interested in his native State and his collection of books and pamphlets relating to South Carolina's history, said to be one of the finest extant, is now in the library of Columbia University, having been deposited there for safekeeping by the Southern Society of New York City, to which Captain Garden had presented it.

"In 1905 Captain Garden delivered the annual address before the South Carolina Bar Association in Columbia, his subject being the inside channel along the Atlantic coast and its great importance to this section. It was an address out of the ordinary for a gathering of lawyers and displayed a remarkable understanding of conditions affecting coastwise transportation.

"Captain Garden frequently visited at Georgetown his old artillery chief, the late Gen. E. P. Alexander, and often their campanion in duck hunting on the Georgetown marshes was the late Grover Cleveland. The Garden family have spent several Winters at Georgetown. Captain Garden was formerly of considerable wealth.

"It is not known here whether Captain Garden ever graduated from the University of South Carolina. The files of Prof. A. C. Moore, who is compiling the alumni records of the institution, contain the following data:

"'Hugh Richardson Garden, son of Alester Garden and Elizabeth Richardson, born in Sumter, July 9, 1840; prepared at Camden by Dr. Gailland; entered from Sumter district, January 1857; studied law at the University of Virginia; enlisted as private in Company D, Second regiment, South Carolina Volunteers, 1861; color bearer, Second regiment, April 1861; appointed captain of artillery; raised and equipped a battery of field guns ("Garden's battery") the material of which was mainly furnished from church bells; participated in the principal battles in Virginia and Maryland; admitted to the bar, 1866; began practice in Columbia; removed to Warrenton, Va., where he practiced for 15 years; removed to New York City, 1882; member of Bond Holders' commission, 1890-92, where he was instrumental in effecting a settlement of the debt of Virginia; D. C. L. of the University of the South, 1892; president of the New York Southern Society, 1890-91; married Lucy Gordon Robertson'."

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

Several Cases Were Heard at Yesterday Morning's Sitting.

In the Recorder's court yesterday morning John McKoy, colored, was given hearing on the charge of stealing a basket of provisions from the home of Mary McGee, a colored woman, found guilty and sentenced to two months on the county roads. McKoy testified that he never stole anything in his life except whiskey. Josephine Blackman, colored, was given hearing on the charge of stealing a quantity of clothing from Mary Moseley, colored. The defendant did not deny getting the clothing, but claimed she did not know she was stealing. She said that the Moseley woman owed her some money and would not pay her; that she took clothing from the Moseley woman's house and sent her word that she would return them when the amount owed her was paid. The defendant said she did not know this was stealing. The Recorder let her off with costs on condition that she return the clothing. Albert Bentley, a sailor, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $5 and costs, and being unable to pay the amount was sent to the roads. Ed Guion, colored, was taxed with the costs in a case against him for failure to pay license tax to conduct a barber shop. He paid the tax after the warrant was issued.

GERMAN DAY IS OBSERVED

Pleasing and Hightly Appropriate Celebration at Lumina by German-American Alliance—Large Attendance of Members.

Yesterday, the one day in the year set apart by the North Carolina branch of the German-American Alliance, composed principally of Wilmington Germans and descendants of Germans, was most fittingly celebrated with appropriate exercises and an oyster roast at Lumina, Wrightsville Beach, and several hundred people joined in the very enjoyable affair. All the branches of the German-American Alliance choose one day in the year, during the month of October, for a brilliant social event when all classes of Germans and descendants of Germans are supposed to meet together on equal terms, and the North Carolina branch chose October 27th.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the happy event was composed of Mr. A. O. Schuster, chairman; Messrs. Edward Wright, Otto Brawn, Wm. Mahler and F. A. Bissinger, whose splendid work in this particular was abundantly reflected in the elaborateness of the affair at Lumina yesterday afternoon and last evening, which was enjoyed to the fullest extent by the large number in attendance. The committee had arranged every detail and met the members as they arrived at the gay pleasure palace during the afternoon and evening and after providing them with the necessary credentials escorted them to the combination cool drink stand and restaurant conducted by Mr. W. D. Stokley, who has as his assistant Mr. Freeman Yopp, the well known life preserver at Lumina during the Summer months. Here the visitors called for anything they wanted and they were given immediate attention. The oyster roast and other refreshments served were most enjoyable indeed.

Shortly before 8 o'clock Mr. M. G. Tiencken, president of the Alliance and one of Wilmington's best known and most prominent citizens, made an address of welcome in which he spoke of the significance of the occasion. The German American Alliance was organized about four years ago, the main principles of which are: To uphold all good ideas of government and to see that all German citizens who come to this country make good American citizens, conducting themselves in such manner as to furnish an example that all countries would do well to follow; it favors a liberal government; believes in obedience to law; would prohibit the entrance in this country of all such as this country would not want and need to come here; to always advocate the German language where two languages are taught and to subject themselves at all times to the customs, etc., of the country in which they happen to be living, and to always bow to to the will of the majority of the people. There are now between five and six million members of the Alliance. At a recent general conference they agreed to work hand in hand with the Hibernians. Recently the organization has unveiled a monument in Philadelphia to Peter Muhlenberg, who was a great friend of George Washington, and represented all that stood for the highest citizenship, and on December 7th of this year a monument will be unveiled in Washington to the memory of General Stuven, which will be attended by a number of local Germans. The erection of the handsome monuments shows the interest the Germans are now taking in the preservation of their splendid history.

The National German-American Alliance has decided that one day in the year, some time during the month of October, should be set aside by each State branch as German Day, for the purpose of meeting together and rejoicing in the German way of sociability. Any date during this month may be selected by the State branches. Usually October 6th is observed, but it was not convenient for the North Carolina branch, the youngest of them all, to celebrate until the latter part of the month.

Immediately following President Tiencken's address, which was listened to with the keenest interest by all present, the orchestra began playing and several couples went upon the fine ball room floor, the music being furnished by Kneisel's Orchestra. Just after the first dance Justice G. W. Bornemann was introduced by Mr. C. W. Polvogt and made a ringing and most enjoyable speech, in which he said that although he was born in Germany he was an American citizen and always stands for the best American citizenship. Justice Bornemann also referred to the fact that he has been for many years a Justice of the Peace of New Hanover county, which shows that the purely Americans are easy to recognize ability and worth. In conclusion Justice Bornemann wished one and all a most enjoyable evening.

A short time later, in the refreshment portion of the pavilion, short addresses were made by Mr. A. O. Schuster, Mr. M. G. Tiencken, Mr. J. N. Niggell, Mr. Otto Brawn and Mr Henry Pieper, the latter draftsman in the United States Engineer office, recently of Baltimore, Md., both of whom made a most pleasing address in German Mr. Pieper in his remarks urged his hearers to always keep up German and speak it because they will always have need for it.

The officers of the North Carolina branch are: President, M. G. Tiencken, Wilmington; first vice president, W. F. Aberle, Newbern; second vice president, H. F. Duls, Wilmington; third vice president, Mr. J. H. Niggell, Wilmington; secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. G. L. Gieschen, Wilmington. The branch was formed only a few months ago with a fairly large membership and since then a large number of others have been added. There is every reason to believe that within another year the membership among the Wilmingtonians will be more than double and Germans and descendants of Germans in every part of the State will be affiliated with the organization.

The first celebration of German Day by the local branch was a signal success and all in attendance enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent and only wish that such occasions occur oftener.

Members of Cape Fear Camp, United Confederate Veterans, of which Colonel Atkinson was a member, met at the W. L. I. armory at 3 o'clock and attended the funeral services in a body. The general high esteem in which Colonel Atkinson was held in Wilmington was attested by the large number of beautiful floral designs. Following the service the body was tenderly borne to Oakdale cemetery, where the interment took place. The pall-bearers were as follows. Honorary, Col. A. B. Andrews, Raleigh; Col. A. M. GOVERNOR KITCHIN TO GREAT CROWDS ception on the part of the people of Pender. He was rejoiced at such an outpouring of the people of Pender and he created laughter by saying that this was the first time in four years that he was not in the campaign as a candidate. He had come this time to aid and encourage the people who had honored him, having sent him to Congress from the Fifth district for 12 years, and having honored him with the Governorship two years. The Governor then discussed the political issues and made a profound impression upon his hearers.

North Carolina's governor is an eloquent, entertaining and forceful speaker and his clear and impressive manner in showing the differences between the Democratic and Republican parties had a telling effect upon the audience. He interspersed his strong defense of Democracy with anecdotes that frequently convulsed the audience. He made no bitter attack upon Republicanism but spoke of it in a pitying vein, making thrusts that caught all present, evoking cheers and applause which meant that the people of Pender have no idea of taking the Republican campaign seriously. Without prejudice and without passion, the Governor pointedly demonstrated the unworthiness of the Republican party. He declared that it was unnecessary to refer to reconstruction and fusion records to show that the Republican party was unworthy of the support of any good man. He said he was reminded of a joint discussion he had with Tom Settle when a candidate for Congress in the Fifth district. An old negro who heard the discussion was asked who he thought got the best of it. The old darkey acknowledged that his man Settle got worsted badly but innocently he gave excuse that it was because Mr. Kitchin had long ways de best side to talk about." Yet, said the Governor, the negro voted for the wrong side although he knew the Democratic side was the best, and as a matter of fact, in all his campaigns, he never converted a negro vote while ten thousand intelligent white Republicans had been turned to Democracy. He hoped that no white man is this time going to follow the example of the negro and vote for the Republican party, knowing that the Democratic party is right and deserving of his support. He declared that every Republican voter is not bad, but why any good man could vote a Republican ticket, passed his comprehension. Even the Republican leaders acknowledge that their side is bad and wrong, for no intelligent Republican is heard to express pride in the administrations of Governor Holden and Governor Russell. Indeed, intelligent Republicans are ashamed of the Holden and Russell records and yet they are asking good men to support the party of whose record they are themselves ashamed. Neither has he heard any Republican promise that a Republican administration now would be better than those of Holden and Russell, for they cannot safely make that promise for the reason that the Republicans know their party has not the intelligence and character to warrant such a promise.

The people know it, too. The Governor said his reason for asserting that the Republican party is not worthy of a good man's support is not unkind but cold-blooded. It is because there are so few intelligent men of character leading the organization. The "old line Republicans" have been so "unfitten" that the Republican party has fallen back upon dissatisfied, disappointed and disgruntled Democrats. In the Charlotte district they looked over the Old Liners and could not find a single man fit to go to Congress so they nominated S. S. McNinch, a disgruntled Democrat who two years ago ran for the State Senate as a Democrat.

In the Wilmington district, the Governor declared, the Republicans looked over their material and could find none worthy of nomination for Congress, so on bended knee they looked for a former Democrat able and ambitious enough to want to go to Congress. They nominated Iredell Meares, who is leading their shattered cohorts. Poor old Republican party!

In the seventh district, represented by Bob Page, the Republicans again took stock and finding no fit man had induced a young and ambitious man, Mr. Parker, to take their nomination. Parker was a Democrat and two years ago offered his services to canvass the State for the Democracy. Poor old Republican party!

In the Raleigh district there was not a single old line Republican to nominate, so his old colleague, R. A. P. Cooley, who was a Democrat three months ago, was selected by them and he is leading the poor, old pitiful Republican party over there.

When President Taft wanted a fit man to appoint as Federal judge, he looked over the Republicans offering for it and did not consider one of them fit. T. T. Hicks, of Henderson, sent up a long petition but he was rejected, yet the Republicans have nominated him for Chief Justice. Poor old Republican party!

E. W. Timberlake, a college mate of Mr. Bland's, was another who ter sought appointment by Taft, but after Taft looked him over, he was stabled. Yet the Republicans have nominated Timberlake for Supreme judge. Poor old Republican party!

President Taft also looked into the record of Harry Skinner and took his measure, but shook his head. Yet the Republicans have nominated Skinner for Supreme Court judge, but he has either regarded himself as unfit or decided there was not the ghost of a show. Therefore, he declined to run.

Taft turned them all down and went outside his party to get a fit man for Federal judge. He did not take a dissatisfied, disappointed, disgruntled Democrat but took that able and upright Democrat, Judge Connor. Poor old Republican party!

Now Mot. Morehead is leading the poor old Republican party. Two years ago he was a Democrat but was beguiled into the Republican party with a nomination for Congress. He bit at the bait like a pike. Now his leadership is backed by Mary Ann Butler, who 18 years ago was a Democrat. The Governor declared that he did not believe Butler had any convictions upon any principles or policies of any party, but was ready to follow any party if he thought it would pay him. So far as Butler is concerned, he regarded him as a political adventurer. He gave a history of Butler's wayward, wavering and indefensible political career, including his concotion of fusion and his election to the United States Senate. However, after his election to the Senate he broke faith with the Republicans and tried to defeat Judge Pritchard for Senator. Seventeen Populists refused to follow Butler and he denounced them as traitors. It is Butler now who dominates Morehead. Poor old Republican party!

Governor Kitchin then detailed some of the reasons why the Democratic party is worthy of support. Ten years ago when Russell was Governor the railroad valuation in the State was $42,000,000. Under Democratic rule today it is $86,000,000. Then there were 18 special school districts while today there are more than a thousand. Under Democratic rule the past seven years, a school house has been built for every day in the year. We have better schools and better school houses and $550,00 is spent annually to take care of the State's unfortunates numbering about 5,000. Under fusion the appropriation for Confederate veterans was $125,000, now it is $450,000 a year and besides $35,000 is spent on the Soldiers' Home every year. Ten years ago the State's banking resources were $29,000,000. Today they are $110,000,000. Under fusion administration the Republicans ran the penitentiary $110,000 in debt. The Democrats had to issue bonds to pay it out of debt and it has again been put on a paying basis. This year the State prison will turn in a profit of $100,000, the largest in its history. Governor Kitchin declared amid laughter that he did not want to rob the Republicans of their share of credit for the penitentiary profits for while the Democrats furnished the brains and management, the Republicans furnished nine-tenths of the labor on the inside of the penitentiary. He declared that his only promise to Republicans, if he ever became Governor, was that he would pardon three times more Republicans than Democrats. The Governor then defended his administration from criticisms of abusing the pardoning power, but that was unnecessary. He laid especial emphasis on the fact that the past year the State sold $3,430,000 of 4 per cent. bonds while Maryland and Louisana failed on account of the stringency of the times. He detailed the emergency when North Carolina was about to fail in placing her securities, how he called the State bankers together and they had such confidence in the Democratic administration, they oversubscribed the issue. Could that have been done under Republican and fusion administrations? Could that be done if the Republicans were now in control? The Governor declared that this bond achievement was hardly second in importance to the suffrage amendment which the Democrats gave the State.

Speaking about bonds, the Governor exposed the venality of Marion Butler, who, while a United States Senator, planned and plotted the scheme to make his State pay South Dakota thousands of dollars for repudiated, fraudulent bonds. He took pay to proceed against his State for the fraudulent bondholders, and the worst of it, he denies it, and evey yesterday denied it in a speech. However, the Court House shook with laughter and applause when the Governor read an advertisement in the New York Post of 1895, signed by Butler, Russell, Pettigrew and others, inviting all bondholders of repudiated bonds to bring them on, as they had the only scheme to force their payment. Truth will finally out, declared Governor Kitchin amid laughter. This is the man assisting Mot. Morehead. Poor old Republican party!

The speaker warned all Democrats to vote and watch out for the Legislature, as this is the only State whose Governor cannot veto bad legislation. He denounced as political hypocrisy the pleas of Morehead, Butler and Meares, that there should be two political parties nearly equally divided, as no man of conviction would preach to sinners and then declare that Christians and sinners should be nearly equally divided to keep out the cause. He ridiculed the self government plan and declared he was so strong for it he would like to see postmasters elected but no Republican would ever consent to that. He denounced the deception which favored local option under the plan of self government."

The Governor made a strong exposition of the iniquity of the tariff and illustrated it in a striking way by using his hat and showing how much tariff tax was paid upon it. He also showed what the tariff does for wages or the price of products and demonstrated the fact very plainly. He closed with an appeal to the young men of North Carolina to choose the Democratic party and stand by their State.

Burgaw's next political feast will be next Tuesday, when Dr. John M. Falson, Democratic nominee for Congress, and George E. Butler, his Republican opponent, will have a joint debate. Intense interest is manifested in this contest and the greatest crowd Burgaw has seen will be there to witness the mill.

Governor Kitchin will tonight for Wilmington. An effort was made to have him speak there tonight, but he declined, preferring to rest and be in condition for his appointment tomorrow at Jacksonville.

PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY.

Mr. French Receives Telegram Stating Death of Mr. L. Christian.

A telegram received yesterday by Mr. Geo. R. French stated the death of Mr. Llewellyn Christian, a former resident of this city, who passed away suddenly yesterday morning at his home in Minneapolis, Minn., after an acute illness from heart trouble. Besides having relatives in Wilmington he has many acquaintances, having visited the city of his boyhood several times in recent years, and his death will be learned of with sincere sorrow.

Mr. Christian's first wife was Miss Eliza D. French, of this city, a daughter of the late Geo. R. and Sarah C. French. She died some three years ago After attending school here for a number of years Mr. Christian, then a youth, went with his parents to Alabama, and in later years, while still a young man, came back to Wilmington, where he resided for some time. Some years later he moved with his family to Wisconsin and finally settled at Minneapolis, where he was a prominent citizen and manufacturer up to the time of his death. He was the senior member of the milling firm of L. Christian & Co., manufacturers of the famous Patent Spring wheat flour. The reputation of his flour extended over this country and Europe. Associated in the milling business with him was Mr. Chas. E. French, who is also a former Wilmingtonian. The deceased was a most successful business man of fine character and was highly esteemed by his many friends here and elsewhere.

Mr. Christian was married the second time two years ago and surviving is a widow and two brothers, Mr. Geo. H. Christian and Rev. William Christian. The funeral will be held at Minneapolis and the remains interred there.

MACOMBER'S DITCH DRAINAGE.

City Engineer Raymond Humphreys has completed his survey of the Macomber's ditch drainage, recently authorized by the Street Commission, and has notified that body that he is ready with his report. It will be recalled that a number of citizens appeared before the Commission recently and strongly urged this much needed improvement and that after satisfying themselves of their status in the maze of legal entanglements that the work was clearly in their province, members of the Commission decided to prepare estimates of the cost of the work, the proportion chargeable to abutting property owners, etc., with a view of taking definite action at a later meeting. The Commission, it is understood, will meet at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon to receive the engineer's report and it is believed that action upon the same will be immediate and definite upon the proposition which has already suffered too long the consequences of delay.

COTTON MARKET MAKES GAINS

Big Demand and Prediction of Cold Weather Caused Advance—Better Cables From Liverpool. 30 Points Higher.

New York, Oct. 27.—Practically all of yesterday's bid loss was recovered in the cotton market today as a result of covering and a renewal of bull support following predictions of cold weather in the belt tonight and the close was steady at a net gain of 21 to 31 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 15 points and quickly sold up to a net gain of about 14 to 21 points on covering by yesterday's sellers and a little fresh buying inspired by somewhat better cables than looked for and the weather map suggesting a decided drop in temperatures. There was heavy realizing by people who had carried cotton over yesterday's break and this caused some irregularity during the early trading, but following the official forecasts confirming the private predictions of heavy frosts or freezing temperatures in the western belt and generally colder weather south, the market again advanced on a big good demand which soon sent prices up to a net gain of about 30 to 32 points.

Around 14.50 for January heavy realizing sales were encountered, but they were absorbed on a reaction of 7 or 8 points from the best and the market later firmed up again, reaching the highest prices of the day, or a net advance of about 30 to 34 points, in the late trading on indications that some of the earlier season bull leaders were re-entering the market on an important scale. The close was only 3 or 4 points off from the top on active positions.

Very little was heard during the day of the free Southern spot offerings reported yesterday and the market seemed to be dominated by an idea that either the recent census report reflected a very short crop or, if the relatively small figures were due to a late season, the plant was in a position to suffer material damage should the predicted cold wave materialize.

Southern spot markets officially reported early were 1-8c lower to 3-16c higher.

Receipts at the ports today 64,412 bales against 56,789 last week and 53,486 last year; for the week 425,000 bales against 451,576 last week and 420,464 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 13,481 bales against 9,853 last year.

Spot closed steady, 30 points higher, middling uplands 14.75; middling gulf 15.00; sales 3,100 bales. Futures opened steady and closed steady.

RENEWED ACTIVITY IN STOCKS

Same Speculative Forces Appeared on the Market Yesterday—Advance in Prices—Bank of England Discount Rate.

New York, Oct. 27.—The resumption of operations for the advance in prices of stocks today was credited to the same speculative forces that were active in its inception. The prestige of this supposed leadership had an imposing effect on the rank and file of professional traders on the stocks and they were inclined to follow the movement. Their operations centered in United States Steel, Union Pacific and Rading with a notable supplement in American Smelting.

There were some striking price movements in other stocks, but they were on a volume of dealings that was not important United States Steel made a new high level for the movement at 80, the staggering burden of realizing sales at that price caused a reaction, which made the closing irregular. The more cheerful speculative sentiment had its incentive in the retention of the Bank of England discount rate at 5 per cent. The effect was perceptible in the foreign exchange market in New York rates declining and widening the market which divides exchange from the price of profit on engagements of gold for London account here. The speculation was quick to take advantage of the implied relief for the New York money market from threatened requisition from foreign sources for gold.

The evidence of call money being in sufficient supply was cited at the stock exchange as proof of safety for speculative requirements. Bankers were not wholly in agreement with this view. The London money position is regarded as holding possibilities of strain during the remainder of the year.

Besides the Bank of England action the Union Pacific annual report and the increase in the Consolidated Gas divided rate were supplementary influences on the rise in prices. The disclosure in the Union Pacific report of the sale of its Atchison holdings was regarded as strengthening the company's contention of non-control of competing lines. The corresponding increase in holdings of New York Central and Chicago & Northwestern was a strengthening influence on these stocks. Union Pacific was affected by the consideration of the broad margin over dividend requirements of the year's earnings.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value $2,487,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call. Total sales for the day 738,500 shares.

AN ADVANCE IN COTTON.

Close Was Steady Yesterday—Cold Wave May Affect Market.

(Special Star Telegram.)

New York, Oct. 27.—A cold wave appeared in Montana following the low barometer now passing east, though Canada, which threatened to bring frost tonight or on Friday into the Southwestern cotton belt. As soon as it appeared on the map buying offers were sent to Liverpool, which had opened on a basis of our closing quotations of yesterday. With slight fluctuations the market steadily advanced some 30 points, closing very steady at a slight recession with the interest for both accounts greatly reduced.

Shorts bought freely on the frost news, while those who bought on the sharp advance of Tuesday were heavy sellers all day. It was noticeable that the spot houses were among the largest sellers. Apparently their advices led them to look for a much larger crop than was thought probable a month ago. Liverpool should be six points higher tomorrow.

GIRL STUDENT A SUICIDE.

Lucinda Farrar, of New Orleans, Took Her Own Life in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 27.—A young American student of the piano, Lucinda Farrar of New Orleans, committed suicide by gas in her rooms in the Latin quarter early this morning. She had been in bad health and despondent for some time, and had mixed little with the student world.

The occupants of the apartments above those occupied by Miss Farrar heard her walking restlessly at about 4 o'clock in the morning. Then there was a faint cry and after that silence. They did not attach any importance to this, but the caretaker of the buildings alarmed at not nearing the piano all day burst in the door and found the girl dead. The doors and windows had been stuffed with paper and all the gas burners were open.

A letter that lay on the table explained that no one was to blame for the girl's death. She had been sick and discouraged and had no wish to live. The American consul general, Frank H. Mason, was informed and he notified the family.

HOW OLD PEOPLE

May Prolong Their Lives.

At an advanced age waste is more rapid than repair. The organs act more slowly and less effectualy than in youth. The circulation is poor—the blood thin and watery—the appetite poor and digestion weak.

We want to say to every aged person in this vicinity that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) will prolong life. It creates an appetite, aids digestion and makes good blood. In this natural maner Vinol retards waste and replaces weakness with strength, giving new life to the worn system.

If people in this vicinity only realized how Vinol invigorates old people we would not be able to supply the demand.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Robert R. Bellamy, Druggist, Wilmington, N. C.

vision elicited considerable discussion on the floor of Synod. Speaking on this subject, Rev. Melton Clark, D. D., urged Synod to realize the importance of providing an able pastor for the church at Chapel Hill. He called attention to the fact that other denominations are placing in the pulpits of their churches there men from their first ranks and he said that the Presbyterian Church must do the same if it is to discharge its full duty to the young men from Presbyterian homes who are students at the University. He cited the conditions at West Point and Anapolis, where the Episcopalian and Catholic churches are the only churches which provide pastors to preach to the young men who are students there and showed that as a result these young men in large numbers who are members of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist homes, go into the army and navy of the United States members of the Episcopal and Catholic churches. He urged that this condition be not repeated at Chapel Hill. He said he believed that there are more boys at Chapel Hill from Presbyterian homes in North Carolina than is true of the student body at Davidson College. He said further that Synod would never consider for a moment the question of closing the Presbyterian Church at Davidson College and he begged that the same consideration be shown to the work of the church.

The time for the consideration of a special order having arrived, the further consideration of the Chapel Hill church was deferred.

Rev. P. R. Law, D. D., editor of the Presbyterian Standard, expressed his appreciation to the members of Synod for their sympathy and co-operation to him in his work and requested a continuance of the same. Rev. G. E. Rayna, Rev. J. M. Wells, D. D., Rev. C. A. Munroe, Mr. John R. Pharr, Mr. A. M. Scales spoke in the highest terms of the Standard and its editor and urged for the paper a large support. Dr. Wells spoke especially of the importance of the church paper in the training of the children in the home. He deplored the fact that in so many homes the principal Sunday reading for the children is found in the unday papers with their large comic supplements. He earnestly recommended a change at this point and recommended that the church paper take the place of the Sunday daily and that the children be trained to read the former instead of the latter.

Mr. Scales spoke especially of the high character of the editorials of Dr. Law and said that he always reads every word in them and that he does this in no other church paper.

Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Davidson College, spoke to Synod of the present encouraging conditions at the college. He showed that the opening of the college this year was the largest in the history of the college and that of the present student body 80 men have expressed themselves as having chosen the ministry as their life work.

Dr. T. W. Lingle, a member of the faculty, also presented the interest of Davidson College. He called attion to the fact that 58 Davidson men are now students in the Theological Seminaries of the church and that 40 of the 91 students in Union Theological Seminary this year are Davidson men.

Seminary Endowment.

No interest presented to Synod has elicited a more ready hearing than that of the endowment campaign for Union Theological Seminary. The Synods of Virginia and North Carolina are the controlling Synods of the Seminary and it is believed that the $300,000 endowment for the seminary can be raised within the bounds of the two Synods between now and May 1912, when the Seminary will celebrate its 100th anniversary. The plan outlined is a campaign that shall begin this month and shall be carried on continuously until May 1911. The Synod of Virginia has been asked to contribute $165,000 of the endowment and the Synod of North Carolina $135,000. Rev. W. S. Lacy, field agent of the endowment campaign will devote his entire time to this work during these six months. Effort will be made for Mr. Lacy or some one acting as his representative, to visit as many churches in both Synods as possible and present this interest to the congregations. During this session of Synod emphasis has been laid upon the fact that the increase in the number of students at the seminary is an answer to prayer for more ministers and that the duty of the church is to do her part and provide for these men. A responsibility is contributed from which the church should not shrink.

Rev. W. W. Moore, D. D., president of the Seminary, emphasized the work of the Seminary very forcibly when he stated to Synod that the attendance since 1870 has been three times larger than at any time in all the years between 1812 and 1870; also that one half of all the missionaries of the church are Seminary men and that the same is true of three-fourts of the members of the Synod of Virginia, of three fifths of the members of the Synod of North Carolina, of more than 40 in the Synod of Kentucky and of 68 now preaching in Texas. The students now in the Seminary are deeply interested in the endowment campaign. They are men of limited means but they are making this work a subject of prayer and are giving to the fund themselves as liberally as possible. Plans are being made for a most interesting and impressive celebration of the centinnial. This will be observed during commencement week 1912, and it may be that the General Assembly of the Church will meet in Richmond at that time, thus adding interest and importance to the celebration. The work of the Seminary has been very materially aided by the erection recently of "Richmond Hall" at a cost of $43,000, the donors being friends in Richmond. During the present month more than $20,000 has been secured on the endowment, and it is believed by those in closest touch with the movement that the work will go forward with gratifying success until the entire amount is secured. No interest presented to Synod has elicited a more ready hearing.

Afternoon Session.

The report of the regents of the Orphan's Home was read, showing there are 180 children in the Home now with no serious illness among them during the year. A debt of $4,500 has been paid and the home has received in legacies $4,000.

The first speaker of the afternoon session was Rev. R. L. Davis, secretary of the Anti-Saloon League.

The special order for the afternoon was then taken up, which was a popular meeting in the interest of the Sabbath and family religion. Revs. C. A. Munroe, J. W. Jopling and A. D. McClure were the speakers and their addresses were among the most interesting delivered during Synod. It was plainly shown that the neglect of Sabbath observance and of religion in the family means the removal of foundation principles in the preservation of Christianity and good citizenship. Dr. McClure, of Wilmington, expressed the central thought of the meeting when he said if the proper training and discipline are observed in the home, Sabbath desecration and other wrongdoing will not be so prevalent.

Rev. Melton Clark, for the committee on Chapel Hill pastorate, reported that $1,500 of the salary had been provided for the next five years and that the remaining $500 would be secured without assistance from Synod's home mission fund. Synod approved the recommendation and within a short time a pastor will be provided.

Evening Session.

A popular meeting in the interest of Home Missions was held this evening. After the reading of the report of the committee, Rev. Homer McMillan, secretary of the Assembly's Home Missions committe, delivered an address full of earnestness and convincing fact. His plea was especially for the church to do her duty in the work of evangelizing the multitudes of foreigners coming so rapidly into this country, showing that this is the only way for the church to discharge her duty. Rev. George W. Belk and Rev. William Black were the other speakers.

Charlotte was selected as the place for holding the Synod next year.

CARNIVAL MEN NABBED.

Enticed Baltimore Girl of Prominence Away From Her Home.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 27.—Before a United States Commissioner here today cases were continued until November 7th against J. W. Napier, Chas. Quaster and Charlie Randolph, white men traveling with a carnival attraction, charged with violation of the Federal white slave law in enticing from their homes in Baltimore, Maud McClelland and Mary von Newendorf.

It is said that the Von Newendorf girl is connected with a prominent Baltimore family.

The defense admitted today that the girls were enticed from their homes by advertisements cleverly worded. Another charge against the defendants is a violation of the postal laws in tampering with the mail addressed to the Von Newendorf girl.

Baltimore, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Mary L. VonNewendorf, who lives at 1432 North Gay street, tonight refused to acknowledge or deny that she is the mother of Marie vonNewendorf, held at Charlotte, N. C., as a witness in a white slave case, notwithstanding her son had previously said Marie is his sister. Mrs. VonNewendorf refused to make any statement until she could consult an attorney. She said, however, that she does not know the men under arrest. The VonNewendorfs are apparently in comfortable circumstances.

Easton, Md., Oct. 27.—Lee Simpson, aged 18 years, of Trappe, died at his home this morning from the effects of an injury received while playing football at the Trappe High School yesterday afternoon.

POU AND COOLEY.

Wound Up Joint Canvass in Raleigh Last Night.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27.—For three hours tonight Congressman Ed W. Pou and R. A. P. Cooley, independent candidate against him for his seat in the next Congress, threshed over their political differences and aired each other's records as each saw the other's in a manner that held with closes attention a crowd that overran the county court room.

Congressman Pou had easy sailing and judging from the wild applause he frequently elicited, literally frazzled his opponent and left him, as he expressed it, "a dead cock in the pit." Mr. Pou presented Mr. Cooley's attitude in having been his manager in Nash county two years ago and as the mover for a unanimous rising vote for his nomination in the last Democratic convention. These were handled with telling effect by Congressman Pou against Cooley's present course.

The discussion here closed the joint canvass unless other dates are agreed on. Mr. Pou declared he has the absolute pledge of Mr. Cooley to vote for him in the November election and that he is confident that Cooley will do so. It is claimed here that the joint canvass has been the means of stirring lively interest in what might otherwise have been a dull canvass. That it is still one-sided and decidedly in favor of the present congressman seems to be the general opinion. Some indeed are wondering if Cooley is not really an "accommodation" candidate.
